STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

No Indigestion, Gas or Sourness After Taking "Pape's Diapiesin"

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you heave gas and eructate sour, indigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapiesin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapiesin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapiesin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

A WELCOME

By ARTHUR WILLIAMS

During the first half of the nineteenth century the weapon in vogue in what was then "the west"—Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio—was the bowie knife. It took its name from Colonel Bowie, its inventor or at least the man who made it famous by his frequent use of it. It was twelve or fourteen inches long and was worn usually stuck in a belt at the waist, but men have been known to carry it hanging between the shoulder blades. This was probably because when its quick use was called for a man could throw his hand up to the back of his neck and pull it out in a hurry.

It was back in the thirties or the forties that a young man alighted from the stagecoach that drew up to a tavern in the town of Vincennes, Ind., now a sizable place, but then a back woods village. He wore his hair long, and there was a German cut about his clothes.

"I wonder who that feller is?" remarked Bill Thompson, who was sitting in the open window of the bar of the tavern. "He don't look like anything I ever see in these parts afore."

"Not a bit of a Dutchman! The Dutch that come out yere don't wear no such clothes as them. If he's come out to stay I reckon he'll need a settin' down. He's rather too fine a bird for this yere wilderness."

The two men followed the stranger to the bar, and as soon as he had been provided with a room Thompson stepped up to him and said:

"Stranger, welcome to Vincennes. Do you mean to stay with us?"

"For awhile."

"Well, come in and have a drink. We always expect strangers to drink with us when they come yere. It's a regular institution with us."

"I don't drink anything but beer or wine."

"Beer or wine! D'ye expect to get them soft drinks out yere? Brandy is the drink in these parts. Step up and try it."

The stranger said he had never drank liquors and didn't care to begin. Whereupon the two men undertook to force him into the customs of the country. He was very obstinate and persisted in refusing.

"Waal, stranger," said Thompson, "the custom out yere is drink or fight. Which'll you do?"

"What kind of fighting do you mean—boxing?"

"Boxing! D'ye suppose we skin our delicate knuckles on one another? Not much! We use Colonel Bowie's implement."

"What's that?"

"Didn't yer never see one?" And he pulled the article out from the back of his neck. The stranger took it and examined it, running his thumb along the sharp edge of the blade and feeling the point with the tip of his forefinger.

"When you fight with this," he asked, "do you wear anything about your stomach or your chest?"

"Haw, haw!" laughed both men. "Now, they were bluffing. They had no idea of fighting the young man. They wished to initiate him into western customs."

"You say I must fight or drink?" asked the youngster.

"That's our way out yere."

"With that thing?"

"Yes."

"Well," continued the stranger, "if you'll cover up your body, leaving only your legs, arms and face exposed, I think I'll fight."

"What y' givin' me?" said Thompson. "What y' goin' to do about your own body?"

"Nothing."

"If you're agoin' to fight," said Si Griggs, "come on and stop yer foolin'."

Griggs and Thompson exchanged glances, and Thompson put on more bluff than ever, leading the way to a suitable spot for the contest. Griggs gave the stranger his knife, and the other two took position. They were somewhat surprised at his readiness to fight, and Thompson, though he kept up a swagger, began to take a trifle uneasy. He was afraid he'd be obliged to hurt the youngster. He stood on the defensive, but this was because he had to. The knife in his opponent's hand was like a humming bird's wings—fluttering dangerously near Thompson's face. Presently he felt blood trickling from his nose, and putting up his hand, found the tip end was gone.

"By gum!" he exclaimed. "This joke has gone far enough. Who be you, sonner, anyway, and where did you learn to handle a bowie knife?"

"I'm Frederick Dubois, the son of Jules Dubois, one of the original French settlers of Vancouver. I've just finished at a German university, and it is there I learned to handle the small sword, which is but a trifle longer than this bowie knife. I have come out here either to sell the family property or settle here. I don't know which, but, judging by you gentlemen, you must all be fine fellows, and I think I'll remain with you."

"What—you Fred Dubois? Shake!" And, holding one hand to his nose, he offered the other to his conqueror.

Dubois invited his new made friends to the chateau and brought out from the cellar a bottle of wine of a very old vintage. They sniffed it, tasted it and pronounced it mighty fine stuff. Then Dubois brought out some fine old brandy. This suited them better, but they said they missed the sting to which they had been accustomed.
